

ADVISORY/Region's Drinking Water and Public Health Professionals Meet to Discuss Water Quality and Public Health

Philadelphia Suburban Water Company and Drexel University School of Public Health host conference

Mar 24, 2003 (BUSINESS WIRE) --

WHAT: Drinking Water and Public Health: A Necessary Partnership is a conference hosted by Philadelphia Suburban Water Company (PSW) and Drexel University's School of Public Health bringing together a distinguished group of water supply and public health professionals and regulators to discuss topics including drinking water quality, regulations and the importance of establishing and maintaining sound working relationships between the three groups to protect public health. Officials will also discuss water security post 9/11.

WHEN: Tuesday, March 25, 9:00 a.m. (opening remarks) until 4:00 p.m.

WHERE: Drexel University's Queen Lane Auditorium A
2900 Queen Lane
Philadelphia (East Falls section)

WHO: PSW Chairman and CEO, Nicholas DeBenedictis
Drexel University President, Constantine Papadakis
Drexel University School of Public Health Dean, Dr. Marla Gold
US EPA, PA DEP and NJ DEP officials
Regional water utility officials from Philadelphia, Delaware, Montgomery, Chester, Bucks, Berks and Lehigh counties
(complete speakers' list is available from PSW)

CONTACT: Philadelphia Suburban Water Company
Joanna Vishio, 610/645-4213
or
Donna Alston, 610/645-1095