

ADVISORY/Philadelphia Suburban Corporation Chairman to Ring the Closing Bell At NYSE Commemorating Name and Ticker Change

Jan 14, 2004 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- Philadelphia Suburban Corporation (NYSE:PSC)

WHO: Philadelphia Suburban Corporation Chairman and CEO Nicholas DeBenedictis and other company officers.

WHAT: Ringing of The Closing Bell(TM) at the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) commemorating the company's name change to Aqua America Inc. and ticker symbol change to WTR.

WHEN: Friday, January 16, 2004
4:00 p.m.

WHERE: New York Stock Exchange
Broadcast media - Live feeds for The Closing Bell (starting at 3:55 p.m.) are available via fiber line at Waterfront #1630. The Closing Bell is also broadcast live on CNBC, CNNfn and Bloomberg TV daily.
Print media - Photos of the bell ringing are available via Associated Press/New York (212-621-1902), Reuters America (646-223-6285) and Bloomberg Photo (212-893-3420).

DETAILS: Philadelphia Suburban Corporation (NYSE:PSC) Chairman and CEO Nicholas DeBenedictis will be joined by other company officers and directors as he rings The Closing Bell at the New York Stock Exchange commemorating the company's name change to Aqua America, Inc. and its ticker symbol change to WTR. PSC, which traces its routes to a local water utility in suburban Philadelphia founded in 1886, is now the largest U.S.-based, publicly-traded water utility serving approximately 2.5 million residents in 14 states. The new name reflects the company's national position.

EDITOR'S NOTE: On January 16, 2004, media inquiries should be directed to Scott Tattar (215-721-1692) or Linda Woody (215-957-0300) at Tattar Richards DBC as PSC communications staff will be on site at NYSE.

SOURCE: Philadelphia Suburban Corporation

Philadelphia Suburban Corporation Donna Alston, 610-645-1095 or Randi Polanich, 610-645-1175